DOINGS OF THE DAY OF MELANO MURDER

Murdered Man and His Friends Were On a Friendly Mission.

Boarding House Boss Warned Russini Against Making Trouble.

After the reputation of the murder of Buffalo, Russia, the boarding house boss of the Melano was asked to go to the witness box. The story was told by the witness, who was the owner of the house, where the murder occurred. He said that he had seen the man who was killed, and that he had seen him with a woman who was also killed. He said that he had seen them both in the house, and that he had seen them both in the street. He said that he had seen them both in the house, and that he had seen them both in the street.

He said that he had seen them both in the house, and that he had seen them both in the street. He said that he had seen them both in the house, and that he had seen them both in the street. He said that he had seen them both in the house, and that he had seen them both in the street.

"Why did you advise the prisoner to go to bed?"

"Because he looked so tired and so excited."

"So, to avoid any trouble with the others you told him to go to bed?"

"Yes, and he told me that he would have no trouble with any person."

"While the room was well-lighted, he had not seen Melano, though he looked at him from time to time."

"He was not a friend of Melano's, but he was a friend of the woman who was killed."

"He was the boarding-house boss."

Drove Germans From Positions at St. Mihiel—Defeated Attacks Near Rheims.

French Take Town Commanding High Roads 15 Miles From the River.

Paris, Jan. 21.—The French army in Alsace has penetrated to the town of Hartmannsweiler, 1 1/2 miles from the Rhine. The town, which commands the high road to the north of Metz, has been taken by the French. The operations in Alsace are the most interesting feature of the war. The French have been fighting in this district for several weeks, and the fighting has been very hard. The French have been driving the Germans back, and have now taken the town of Hartmannsweiler. This town is a very important one, as it commands the high road to the north of Metz. The French have been fighting in this district for several weeks, and the fighting has been very hard. Northwest of Arras, at Notre Dame de la Cour, the French have maintained themselves in a position retaken from the Germans. On the night of January 19, the French turned the position over to the British. An official German statement claimed success at Notre Dame de la Cour, but the British statement states that the Germans were driven from the town. The German statement also claims that a company of Germans was captured. The British official statement issued yesterday admits the loss of Notre Dame de la Cour, but states that the Germans were driven from the town. # RUSSIA'S NEW SCHEME TO THEM IN TRUCTIONS

Northern Army Moves to Entrap Von Franco's Forces.

Will Give a Chance to Avenge Tannenberg Defeat.

London, Jan. 21.—The immediate objective of the Russian offensive movement in North Poland is the recapture of Mlawa, the little town that so often has changed hands since the beginning of the war, owing to its situation just across the German frontier from Bialystok. Advice from Petrograd tonight indicates that the plan is to give Gen. Von Franco's army northward from Mlawa and seek to push past it towards the Masurian Lakes, thus enveloping the German forces in that region.

THE SUCCESS OF SUCH A MOVEMENT would mean that the Germans in the Mlawa district would be placed between the two fires of the Russians from North Poland and the Russians advancing through East Prussia from the direction of the Niemen River. Thus, the Russians would be well placed to arrange themselves for the defeat at Tannenberg again in the west.

SCOUTING BEHIND RUSSIANS.

It is reported from Petrograd that small bodies of Germans have appeared north of the Russian army moving through North Poland. No apprehension, however, is expressed that the German detachments are merely reconnoitering. #### Former Assistant City Engineer Asked, by Letter, to be Reinstated.

EAST SEWER JOB

City Engineer Will Not Hold Himself Responsible for the High Cost.

The principal issue before the committee at this morning's meeting was with reference to former Assistant City Engineer Hollingworth who by letter asked to be reinstated. Mr. Hollingworth's letter was: Chairman and members of the Board of Control: Gentlemen:—I herewith beg to make application to your Board for reinstatement to the position of assistant city engineer, which position I held since July, 1912. In making application I realize that whilst developments during the recent investigation, show there was an amount of irregularities in the department, under the system then existing, it was impossible for me to assume all the responsibilities placed on me, and I make the application, in the best of my ability, with the means at my disposal, doing everything in my power to rectify the errors of the past, irrespective of the prescribed duties set out in the attached letter. As duties, additional to those enumerated, I have undertaken, in order to rectify the errors of the past, and to secure permanent work of construction and design might be improved, and I have carried out the same, and all works under my supervision have been carried out in accordance with the requirements, and are of absolutely permanent construction. I have carried out the same, and all works under my supervision have been carried out in accordance with the requirements, and are of absolutely permanent construction. ### THE MAN IN OVERALLS

Does my friend, Fernande, intend to make a "movie" out of Wabash Park?

The city seems to have plenty of work on hand, but none of it is just noticeable at present. A funny situation.

Don't worry about the war. Join the home guard and help with the knitting.

Keep Saturday afternoon reserved for the South Westward Reform Association meeting in Liberal Club hall, James street north.

Next Monday and Tuesday the east end incinerator will be shut down while it is being changed from a steam to a gas engine. On these two days you will either have to climb the steps or the Jolly Cut.

If we have a city manager would we like to do with our Board of Control?

Where would Chief Tenby like to see the proposed new reservoir located? How far from the city? How far from the city? How far from the city?

Quietly now we should begin to pick up the pieces of the old city. Let us run for seats on the School Board next year.

Does any of your young folks want to be a city manager? Let us run for seats on the School Board next year.

In the matter of reading, you can always pick your own company.

In these warlike times you may find that the only thing you need is a question, so far as it goes.

Business as usual. Don't retrench if you can't do it.

Home Chaff's thought for today: If you are always bored you may be bored for the wrong reason. You are too much of a self and too little of a lover.

THE WEATHER

ITALIAN RELIEF

Local Residents Have Organized an Association.

Last night a committee was formed of prominent Italians in this city to arrange a scheme whereby money could be raised for the relief of those who have suffered and loss of property in the recent terrible earthquake, which has ravaged each month, their native country. A complete canvass will be made and it is hoped that a large sum will be raised. The committee is one that will deserve support.

SUBWAY WORK

Railway People Fear Cost at "Unemployed" Job.

The conference between the Grand Trunk Railway and township of Barton representatives with reference to the Kensington avenue subway project in the Board of Control room. The Grand Trunk Railway people pointed out that they thought it impossible to make an estimate of the cost of the job.
